

Jillian Schwedler

Jillian Schwedler
University of Maryland

"Does Inclusion Produce Moderation?
Comparative Insight from Islamist Parties"

Tuesday, May 17, 2005
12:00 p.m.
Mershon Center
Room 120

Dr. Jillian Schwedler is Assistant Professor of Government and Politics at the University of Maryland, College Park. She received her PhD in Politics from New York University in September 2000. Her articles have appeared in Journal of Democracy, Comparative Politics, Journal of Palestine Studies, Middle East Report, and other journals, as well as in several edited volumes. She is author of Faith in Moderation: Islamist Parties in Jordan and Yemen (under review) and has co-edited several volumes on the Middle East.

Dr. Schwedler has received awards and fellowships from the Social Science Research Council, the Fulbright Foundation (Jordan, 1996), the Council of American Overseas Research Centers, the American Institute for Yemeni Studies, and the Law and Society Association. She has conducted extensive field research in Egypt, Jordan, and Yemen, and has traveled throughout the Middle East.

Dr. Schwedler is currently Chair of the Board of Directors of the Middle East Research and Information Project (MERIP), publishers of the quarterly journal, Middle East Report. She is also Secretary of the Palestinian American Research Center and a member of the Editorial Board of the New England Journal of Political Science. From 1991-1995, she was Program Officer for the Civil Society in the Middle East Project at New York University, which was funded by the Ford and Rockefeller Foundations.

Dr. Schwedler's current research interests include protest and policing, political Islam, contentious politics, democratization, political culture, and transnational public spheres.